

The inaugural series of the 2025 calendar year proved to be disappointing, with the benchmark index continuing its downward trend throughout the series. The previous swing low from the November series, which was near 23,250, was breached, pushing the index closer to the critical psychological level of 23,000. However, following some relief in the last few sessions, the Nifty index managed to recover slightly and ended the series around the 23,250 mark.

The Nifty rollover for the series stood at 81%, above the three-month average, with an increase in outstanding contracts from the previous series. This suggests that short positions have been carried forward into the next series. Liquidity in the Indian equity market was further constrained by strong hands, with net selling of ₹87,375 crore in January. Notably, Domestic Institutional Investors (DIIs) were net buyers, purchasing ₹86,592 crore. However, Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) reduced their long positions and significantly increased short positions, which further decreased the Long-Short Ratio for index futures from 18% at the start of the series to 11% by the end, indicating an extremely oversold condition.

Given the upcoming key events, such as the Union Budget, the MPC outcome, the Delhi state election, and developments regarding US tariffs, we expect to gain clearer insights once these events unfold, likely by next week. In the meantime, it's prudent to adopt a flexible strategy, focusing on identifying potential opportunities rather than making aggressive bets during the special trading session of the Union Budget.
