Monkeypox: Centre team in Kerala after first case

SOHINI DAS
Mumbai, 14 July

The Centre on Thursday rushed a high-level, multi-disciplinary team to Kerala to collaborate with the state health authorities and institute public health measures after one case of monkeypox was confirmed in Kollam district of this southern state.

The central team to Kerala comprises experts drawn from National Centre for Disease Control (NCDC), Dr RML Hospital, New Delhi and senior officials from MoHFW, along with experts from Regional Office of Health and Family Welfare, Kerala.

Earlier in the day, the health ministry had written to states, asking them to proactively work on public health response against the disease. "The team shall work closely with state health departments and take stock of on-ground situations and recommend necessary public health interventions. Govt of India is taking proactive steps by monitoring the situation carefully and coordinating with states in case of any such possibility of outbreak occurs," the health ministry said in the evening.

The Centre had already issued guidelines for monkeypox disease management on May 31 amid rising cases across the globe.

A person who returned from overseas has been admitted to hospital after he showed signs of monkeypox.

STEPPING UP VIGIL

- Hospitals must be identified where these patients will be treated, the Centre has said
- MoHFW asks states to follow May 31 guidelines
- Samples of first case were sent for testing at NIV, Pune
- Patient came from overseas, was in contact with monkeypox patient

The samples sent to the National Institute of Virology for testing, came back positive. The person concerned was in close contact with a monkeypox patient abroad. Already eleven people who came in contact with the monkeypox patient have been quarantined.

The health ministry has urged states to start working on their public health infrastructure to handle the disease. The ministry has asked states to start screening at points of entries, contact-tracing, and undertake surveillance activities following detection of a case. Testing and treatment protocols should be set and doctors working in hospitals, along with disease surveillance teams, should be alert about common signs and symptoms.

Patients have to be isolated ed until all lesions have resolved and the scabs have completely fallen off, the letter from Union health secretary Rajesh Bhushan said. Hospitals must be identified and adequate human resource and logistic support should be ensured at identified hospitals equipped to manage suspected or confirmed cases, Bhushan said.

Intensive risk communication should be shared with health care workers, sites like skin and paediatric OPDs, immunisation clinics, etc. People should also be encouraged to report the symptoms promptly, the letter added.

The World Health Organization (WHO) has reported 3,413 laboratory confirmed cases of monkeypox since January 1, and one death.

"Majority of these cases have been reported from the European Region (86 per cent) and the Americas (11 per cent). This points to a slow but sustained increase in the spread of cases globally. Considering this is the first time that cases and clusters are being reported concurrently in five WHO Regions, WHO has assessed the overall risk of spread of cases as "moderate" at global level," the health ministry letter read.

Monkeypox typically begins with a fever, headache, muscle aches, back-aches and exhaustion. The US Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) notes that it also causes lymph nodes to swell which is unlike smallpox. WHO has said it was important to not confuse monkeypox with chickenpox, measles, bacterial skin infections, scabies, syphilis and medication-associated allergies.

The symptoms usually last for two to four weeks. It is usually a self-limiting disease.

After the initial fever phase, skin eruptions show up. Rashes are usually concentrated on the face, palms and soles of feet. It can also affect the cornea and the genital areas. These eruptions can last for two to four weeks; they harden, become painful, and get filled up with fluid and eventually with pus. Finally, the scabs form and they fall off.

The health ministry has asked to isolate patients till the time scabs fall off. It has also asked to watch out for any blurring of vision and decreased urine output.

Maha slashes VAT on petrol, diesel

Maharashtra government had decided to reduce the value-added tax (VAT) on petrol and diesel by ₹5 and ₹3 per litre, respectively, Chief Minister Eknath Shinde said on Thursday.

The decision, to be implemented from Thursday midnight, would entail a burden of ₹6,000 crore on the state exchequer. It would benefit the common man affected by the fuel price hike, Shinde told reporters after a Cabinet meeting at the secretariat 'Mantralaya'. Deputy CM Devendra Fadnis said the decision was part of the Shiv Sena-BJP government's commitment to people's welfare. The state would ensure the burden of ₹6,000 crore on the state exchequer does not impact development works, Shinde said. The Maharashtra government also reversed the previous Maha Vikas Aghadi (MVA) regime's decision to stop direct election of village sarpanchs and municipal council/nagar panchayat presidents. PTI

Frontline to front office: Policy makes way for ex-rebels

R KRISHNA DAS
Raipur, 14 July

Clad in blue saree, Damsi Kuhrami welcomes visitors with folded hands that once pulled the trigger to target security personnel in Chhattisgarh's restive Bastar region.

Now in her mid-twenties, Damsi joined the Chetna Natya Mandali (CNM), a frontal organisation of the outlawed Communist Party of India (Maoist), when she was just 13 in 2011. A resident of Chandameta in Bastar district, her family was living in deprivation that reportedly forced her to join the Red Army.

Initially, she was asked to promote Mao ideology through cultural activities among villagers in the remote pockets. She was later elevated in the party to join the main cadre. Damsi, who was carrying a reward of ₹5 lakh, was involved in several deadly attacks on security personnel.

While working with the organisation, she met Vargesh, another hardcore Maoist. They decided to get married and lead a peaceful life. But fate willed otherwise for Damsi as Vargesh was killed in an encounter with security forces in Katakalyan on the very day they tied the knot.

The incident devastated her and she decided to lay down arms.

"The Chhattisgarh government's attractive Maoist surrender and rehabilitation policy provided a platform and she joined the mainstream in July 2020," Inspector General of Police (Bastar) Sundarraj P said. Damsi is one of the 1,463 Maoists surrendered in the last three and a half years swayed by the scheme, he said, adding that in the current calendar year, 259 rebels have laid down arms (as on June 24, 2022).

Under the state government's policy, a high-ranked rebel surrendering is eligible to get ₹5 lakh while middle and lower cadre are entitled to get ₹2.5 lakh, besides a monthly stipend of ₹6,000 for a maximum period of 36 months. It excludes additional incentives for recovered weapons and grants for study and house construction.

Besides the package, the administration is also skilling surrendered Maoists according to their eligibility and talent. A well-equipped skill development centre has been set up at Adawal on the outskirts of Jagdalpur where surrendered rebels are imparted training. Damsi is one of the beneficiaries of the centre.

Damsi was skilled in human resources at the centre where she has been transformed as a receptionist. Damsi has been absorbed at Chitrakote Eco-Tourism Resort, managed by the state-run Chhattisgarh Tourism Board at Chitrakote, which has found place in the tourism map because of its beautiful waterfalls.

RAJASTHAN Promoting tourism via khadi

ANIL SHARMA
Jaipur, 14 July

The Rajasthan government is taking steps to promote khadi and provide facilities and incentives to workers engaged in the handicraft. The state government will set up a Khadi Plaza in Jaipur. The plaza will help to promote khadi products and facilitate weavers of the state to showcase and market their products.

Rajiv Arora, chairman, Rajasthan Small Industries Corporation, said technical consultants had been hired for renovating the Rajasthali complex to make it a centre of attraction for tourists.

Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot has approved the draft of the "Khadi Workers Economic Incentive Scheme". Along with this, he has sanctioned ₹9 crore for assisting workers in 2022-23.

With this approval, over 20,000 khadi workers of the state will get remuneration. Under this scheme, khadi spinners/weavers will get incentives per square metre (which is called gundi) in addition to the rates fixed by the Khadi and Village Industries Commission in accordance with the cost chart.

Apart from this, workers engaged in khadi organisations/societies will get an incentive per square metre on the items produced by such organisations/societies. An amount of ₹36 lakh will be for the manufacture of software, computer operators, and other works including data entry. The Khadi and Village Industries Commission will invite applications from workers through khadi institutions/committees. The incentive will be transferred directly to the bank account of the beneficiary. Meanwhile, Minister for Khadi and Village Industries Shakuntla Rawat said apart from aggressive marketing, the state government proposed an online platform to boost sales of khadi products.
